DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

"I had suffered from indigestion, and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 1613 East Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y. "I had severe attacks of headache and dizziness with cold hands and feet; everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated, and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery' and several bottles of the 'Pellets.' I commenced feeling better with the first bottle, and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it. I most heartily recommend those medicines to all suffering as I was."

VIEWS OF ALEXANDRIANS.

The Alexandria correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch says:

In conversation with a correspondent for the Dispatch, Mayor George L. Simpson stated the belief that the democratic State convention should not take any action in regard to the Kansas City platform. He said he thought it was unnecessary and uncalled for at present, and remarked that the candidates before the convention seem to stand on pretty much the same ground.

"A reaffirmation of the Kansas City platform," said the Mayor, "carries with it an implied rebuke to the country on its course in the Philippines. It is now an exceedingly inopportune time to raise that question, for if there were excellent reasons for not entering upon a career of conquest, these reasons are obliterated in the knowledge that we all are American citizens, and that our best wishes and sympathies go out to our American soldiers, whether the government is right or wrong, and that as American citizens we must necessarily rejoice in the success of American arms."

Mr. Samuel G. Brent, a delegate to the democratic State convention, expressed his views on the subject of a State party platform as follows: "I believe that the democratic convention at Norfolk should, as far as possible, avoid any declaration upon national issues, and that every thing should be done to harmonize the conflicting opinions of the members of the democratic party. I favor the nomination of State officers and the members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives by primary elections. The platform should also declare for a free ballot and a free count, and should pledge the party to a thorough business management of the affairs of the State."

Mr. James R. Catton, a member of the Alexandria delegation to the Norfolk convention, gave the following statement embodying his views on the State platform to be adopted by the convention: "I think we ought to declare first in favor of an economic administration of the affairs of the State government and for the reduction of the number of officers in the county organizations; secondly, a strong and emphatic declaration against trusts and combinations; and, thirdly, in favor of submitting the result of the work of the constitutional convention to the vote of the people for ratification."

In regard to the platform of the next democratic national convention, Mr. Catton said: "It is premature to make any declaration as to what shall be the platform of the party in the next presidential contest, and I think any declaration at this time on that subject should be avoided, as in the next two years conditions may so change as to raise issues that are not now to be anticipated. I believe, also, that the convention should avoid any declaration which would discredit those who endorsed and supported the Kansas City platform and the candidate."

GYPSY MAID WON LYNCHBURG MAN.

George D. Payne, of Lynchburg, has married and settled down. There are those who fear that to stay settled down will be the problem of Mr. Payne's life, for his wife is a gypsy. Mr. Payne is a prosperous business man with a touch of the romantic in his make-up. His bride does not claim to be a gypsy queen, but she is as pretty as a March cat and has the tender and alluring eyes of a fawn. In the Gypsy camp near Rock Mount she told fortunes. Mr. Payne wanted a peep into the future and he tried to peep through those eyes. He found them enigmatically blue, and in them his bachelordom was drowned. Her real name was Agnes Williams, and she was originally from Illinois (to the best of her belief). She was as free as the wind to come and go among the places of the earth. In her tender soul lurked the spirit of the swallow. The blue skies were her roof and the boughs of green trees were its rafters. Her carpet was the mold of the forest and her chiffoniere a rock beside a stream. Nature took the gypsy girl to her breast and made her of the loveliness of itself. The Lynchburg man had his fortune told and one night when the moon hung soft and low over the hills he whispered to the gypsy maid in the shadows of the tent:

"Treat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

And the gypsy maiden looked beyond the hills and over the pathways of her people and her eyes pierced the distant forests and she wandered again in the glens and by the mountain streams, but there she was something from nature of which she had not dreamed—love. They were married. Rev. F. L. Higdon, of the Presbyterian Church, married them in their honeymoon. The good wishes and the good luck spells of all the gypsies are with the couple. There will be no more

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan.

"My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No, I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried.' For sale by Richard Gibson, druggist.

TO ACCOMMODATE those who are partial to the use of stimulants in applying liniments to the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 50 Warren st., N. Y.

James White, Bay Mills, Ind., says: "I got DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for head running sores on both legs. He had suffered 6 years. Doctors failed to help him. Get DeWitt's. Accept no imitations. For sale by E. S. Leadbeater and Sons.
